

I have had my satellite radio for about five months now. I never saw what all the hoopla was about until I bought a used car with it already installed. Now, I will not listen to anything else. I choose to pay for this LUXURY monthly and believe that I should continue to be able to do this.

I do not like listening to undeducated local radio hosts and pointless morning gameshows on the way to work. I do not want to hear commercials. With satellite radio I can get what I want to hear be it music, sports, news, comedy, etc.. Most of America hears enough talk at work or at home and that is the last thing we want when we turn on our radios for a pleasant escape.

As a consumer who works hard to pay for the things that make my day more enjoyable, like XM Radio, I have the right to continue to use this product.
